Leader Training22-23

Dear Parent;

In the outdoors, youth have opportunities to acquire skills that make them more self-reliant and learn that good teamwork is the key to success. They learn quickly that by working together and sharing duties, they accomplish far more than they could alone. Attributes of good character become part of a youth as he or she learns to cooperate to meet outdoor challenges.

Learning by doing is a hallmark of outdoor education. Unit meetings offer information and knowledge used on outdoor adventures. A leader may describe and demonstrate a Scouting skill at a meeting, but the way Scouts truly learn an outdoor skill is to do it themselves on a unit outing or at summer camp.

The Shenandoah Area Council offers one of the premier accredited Outdoor Education Centers in Camp Rock Enon. Nestled in the foothills of the Appalachians and only 30 miles from Winchester, Camp Rock Enon offers a wide range of programming for all ages. These programs are designed to bring Scouting alive for your son or daughter giving them opportunities to showcase what they have learned in their unit meetings while having fun and adventure.

This booklet provides a glimpse of the programs offered for all age groups as well as training for Scouting's adult volunteer leaders. Help bring Scouting alive for your son or daughter by sending them to one or more of our programs in 2015.

Sincerely,

J. Michael Spory
